

ENG101 : Oral Communication

Introducing students to the theory and practices of oral communication. Students will develop their ability to effectively communicate through speech in their academic, business, and social life. Students will learn to build a logical organization of expository, argumentative, and persuasive speaking. While there is an emphasis on public speaking, students will learn the art of critique, collaborative communications, and negotiation.

Credits 3