

BUS402 : Advanced Principles of Marketing

Students explore managerial perspectives of marketing. Topics include considering economic principles, analyzing operational needs, distribution and financial alternatives, marketing information, pricing products and services, developing product/service planning strategies, promoting products and services, purchasing, and professional sales in a global economy.

Credits 3