

BUS415 : Politics and Global Trade

An examination of the impact of politics on trade in the global economy. Students will study the history, theories, and structures of global politics and the impact politics has on global trade, as well as examining the role of non-governmental agencies (NGOs) in terms of how to build social responsibility, economic and environmental sustainability, and social justice through economics prosperity.

Credits 3